Paxton is Growing

The editor, his wife and daughter spent Sunday in Paxton and were delightedly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. N. McNamar. Paxton, like all towns in western Nebraska, is growing, the latest addition in the building line being a hotel erected by P. C. Meyer at a cost of $14,000. Merchants report trade as good, and the stores carry big stocks. The town has the air of prosperity.

With the exception of about five miles—from the "Stone ranch" to the P. C. Meyers ranch—the road was in excellent condition. The bad road stated above is being replaced by a newly graded road upon which W. D. Waldo is now working. When this piece of road is in shape the Lincoln Highway from North Platte to Ogalala will be fine.

Attends Family Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bird and family returned last week from Oelwein, Ia., where they attended a reunion of the Bird family. In speaking of the affair the Oelwein Daily Register said:

"There was a reunion of the Birds down at the city park Sunday, August 29 and it was a very pleasant affair. Among the family present were Jerry Bird, of Superior, Wisconsin, Hugh Bird and family, of North Platte, Nebraska, Mrs. Mary Streeter, of Tacoma, Wash. Mrs. Sylvia Rathbun and family of Maynard, Horace Bird and family of Stanley, Clark Bird and family of Aurora and Andrew Bird and family of Oelwein. With forty or fifty relatives and friends and school mates, all bringing baskets filled to the brims and all seated at a long table the company enjoyed a bountiful dinner, while talking over old time school days of two score years ago. There were several readings which were interesting although the day was a trifle cool. But they kept warm with hearty handshakes and departed asserting that they had enjoyed a most pleasant picnic, hoping that the Birds will flock together again next year."
